

RHODE ISLAND FAMILY COURT

Amended Administrative Order 99-8

RE: In re Family and Juvenile Drug Court for Providence, Bristol, Kent, Washington and Newport Counties

Consistent with Rhode Island General Laws sections 8-10-8 and 14-1-59, the Department of Human Services (DHS) shall provide for the recently instituted Family and Juvenile Drug Court an integrated individual treatment program for juveniles referred to the Drug Court. Such treatment program shall include case coordination services (client needs assessment, treatment planning, treatment coordination, referral and evaluation), and direct client services (individual and group therapy, alcohol and drug abuse education, testing, and treatment, medical services, cognitive, behavioral and life skills development, support groups, supervision and monitoring, vocational training, family interventions, transition and aftercare services). The Department of Human Services shall also establish a coordinated system of authorization and payment/reimbursement for said services consistent with the duties and obligations for public and private agencies established under sections 8-10-8 and 14-1-59.

This order shall take effect on March 30, 2001.

Jeremiah S. Jeremiah, Jr.
Chief Judge

RHODE ISLAND FAMILY COURT

Amended Administrative Order 99-8

RE: In re Family and Juvenile Drug Court for Providence, Bristol, Kent and Washington Counties

Consistent with Rhode Island General Laws sections 8-10-8 and 14-1-59, the Department of Human Services (DHS) shall provide for the recently instituted Family and Juvenile Drug Court an integrated individual treatment program for juveniles referred to the Drug Court. Such treatment program shall include case coordination services (client needs assessment, treatment planning, treatment coordination, referral and evaluation), and direct client services (individual and group therapy, alcohol and drug abuse education, testing, and treatment, medical services, cognitive, behavioral and life skills development, support groups, supervision and monitoring, vocational training, family interventions, transition and aftercare services). The Department of Human Services shall also establish a coordinated system of authorization and payment/reimbursement for said services consistent with the duties and obligations for public and private agencies established under sections 8-10-8 and 14-1-59.

This order shall take effect on October 23, 2000.

Jeremiah S. Jeremiah Jr.
Chief Judge

RHODE ISLAND FAMILY COURT

Amended Administrative Order 99-8
*

RE: In re Family and Juvenile Drug Court for Providence, Bristol and Kent Counties

Consistent with Rhode Island General Laws sections 8-10-8 and 14-1-59, the Department of Human Services (DHS) shall provide for the recently instituted Family and Juvenile Drug Court an integrated individual treatment program for juveniles referred to the Drug Court. Such treatment program shall include case coordination services (client needs assessment, treatment planning, treatment coordination, referral and evaluation), and direct client services (individual and group therapy, alcohol and drug abuse education, testing, and treatment, medical services, cognitive, behavioral and life skills development, support groups, supervision and monitoring, vocational training, family interventions, transition and aftercare services). The Department of Human Services shall also establish a coordinated system of authorization and payment/reimbursement for said services consistent with the duties and obligations for public and private agencies established under sections 8-10-8 and 14-1-59.

This order shall take effect on April 15, 2000.

Jeremiah S. Jeremiah, Jr.
Chief Judge

RHODE ISLAND FAMILY COURT

Administrative Order 99-8

RE: In re Family and Juvenile Drug Court for Providence and Bristol Counties

Consistent with Rhode Island General Laws sections 8-10-8 and 14-1-59, the Department of Human Services (DHS) shall provide for the recently instituted Family and Juvenile Drug Court an integrated individual treatment program for juveniles referred to the Drug Court. Such treatment program shall include case coordination services (client needs assessment, treatment planning, treatment coordination, referral and evaluation), and direct client services (individual and group therapy, alcohol and drug abuse education, testing, and treatment, medical services, cognitive, behavioral and life skills development, support groups, supervision and monitoring, vocational training, family interventions, transition and aftercare services). The Department of Human Services shall also establish a coordinated system of authorization and payment/reimbursement for said services consistent with the duties and obligations for public and private agencies established under sections 8-10-8 and 14-1-59.

This order shall take effect on December 3, 1999.

Jeremiah S. Jeremiah, Jr.
Chief Judge