

News Advisory

From the Rhode Island Judiciary

Rhode Island Supreme Court Chief Justice Paul A. Suttell, center, with Judiciary employees who received 2013 Employee of the Year awards from their respective courts on April 17. Front row, from left, Claudia M. Porrazzo, of Johnston, Superior Court Employee of the Year, and Christina M. Harrington, of Westerly, District Court Employee of the Year. Back row, from left, Beverly A. Wilkinson, of Pawtucket, Family Court Employee of the Year; Richard M. Blakely, of East Providence, Supreme Court Employee of the Year, and Michael A. Castelli, of Johnston, Rhode Island Traffic Tribunal Employee of the Year.

Courts recognize service of longtime employees

April 17, 2014: The Rhode Island Judiciary today recognized 82 longtime employees for their length of state service and honored 10 retirees and Employees of the Year from the various courts.

The employees personally received certificates from Supreme Court Chief Justice Paul A. Suttell, State Court Administrator J. Joseph Baxter Jr., and the chief judges and administrators from their respective courts.

Supreme Court employees received their certificates from Chief Justice Suttell and Baxter. Superior Court employees received theirs from Presiding Justice Alice B. Gibney and Administrator Joseph V. Conley. Family Court employees received theirs from Chief Judge Haiganush R. Bedrosian and Administrator Ronald Pagliarini. District Court employees received theirs from Associate Judge Pamela Woodcock Pfeiffer and Administrator Kevin M. Spina.

Workers' Compensation Court employees received certificates from Chief Judge George E. Healy Jr. and Executive Director Maureen H. Aveno. Traffic Tribunal employees received theirs from Chief Magistrate William R. Guglietta and Administrator Thomas J. Laliberte.

Supreme Court Employee of the Year: Richard M. Blakely of East Providence

Superior Court Employee of the Year: Claudia M. Porrazzo of Johnston

Family Court Employee of the Year: Beverly A. Wilkinson of Pawtucket

District Court Employee of the Year: Christina M. Harrington of Westerly

Workers' Compensation Court Employees of the Year: The entire staff for pioneering the Judiciary's new case management system

Rhode Island Traffic Tribunal Employee of the Year: Michael A. Castelli of Johnston

#